Kinnerley Registers.

Genealogical — 4d. 00 (6 vols)

THIS extensive parish lies in that portion of the county which was transferred from the Marches of Wales in the time of Henry VIIIth, and while the language is now entirely English, the local names are predominantly Welsh. The principal name, indeed, has appeared under many forms. In the Domesday Survey, A.D. 1086, it occurs as "Chenardelei,"—in the Norwich Taxation, A.D. 1253, as "Kinardinlhe,"—in the Lincoln Taxation, A.D. 1291, as "Kynardynllef"; in a Trial of the following year as "Kynardelegh"; and in the next century we have it in a Deed of Presentation as "Kinnardinlle." In these we have the full form of which "Kinnerley" is a later abbreviation. But what does it mean? The latter half, "din-lle," the place of the fortress or citadel, has evident reference to the strong watergirt and fortified Mound near Farm Hall, marked on the Ordnance Map, under the tautology of "Belan Bank"; the former half, "Kin-ar," "Chen-ar," represents the "Cefn," or slightly raised ridge of land that adjoins it ("ar"), just as "Argoed" represents the district "on the forest."—Indeed, it is evident from the place names that the whole of the western side of the parish was one great forest, sweeping round from Trospan (Osbaston) Wood on the north to Tirycoed (the Woodland) and Edgerley Wood on the south.—Such names are "Maesbrook" from Maes (the common or open field)—brwg (a wood or brake, often occurring in South Wales as Brwg y dyffryn, Brwg Llecwydd); Llwyn-y-go (the Smith's coppice); Pentre-perva (the hamlet in the heart of the forest), and just across the borders, a continuation of it in Llwyn Tudmon and Llwyn y groes.—Domesday records its then extent as in "Sburneston and Chimerestun" (Osbaston and Kynaston), "11 leagues of wood," and in "Chenardelei (Kinnerley) "half a league of wood." As befitted a district situated between the Welsh and the Saxons, it had three military posts; (1) The Dinlle already noticed on the East (2) the "Cnwccyn (Hillock or Mount) on which Knockin Castle was afterwards built, and (3) the moated mound at Maesbrook, between Pentre Ucha gate and bridge, the site of which may still be traced in the lawn of Pentre Ucha.

The evangelization of this district must have begun early in the sixth century to judge from the prominent position occupied by S. Ffraid (Brigid) in the annual festival that commemorated the connexion of Knockin with the mother parish, in the perambulation of the parish and the payment of a pension to the Rector on that day. It shared, however, doubtless, in the ruin that involved the churches of its neighbour, Baschurch, when harried and overthrown by the pagan Saxons who slew Cynddylan and sacked Shrewsbury in the middle of that century.

"Eglwysseu Bassa collasant eu braint
Gwedy diva oLoegyrwys
Cynddylan ac Elvan Powys."

(The churches of Bassa were deprived of their rights when the Loegrians destroyed Cynddylan and Elvan of Powys).

What happened, ecclesiastically, to the parish during the period of Saxon rule we are not told; but there is no reason to think that Kinnerley fared differently to its neighbours, or that the superseded British clergy were not supplanted by Saxon ecclesiastics. There is, indeed, no mention in Domesday of a Church then existing here; but it by no means follows that there was none: for the object of that Survey was the taxable property of the country. At a later period, the civil and ecclesiastical history are more closely intertwined, and they mainly circulate around two events, (i) the separation of the Knockin portion into an independent Rectory, save only the obligations to pay an annual pension of twelve pence to the Rector of the mother Church, and the right of burial, which was only conceded to it in 1817, and (ii) the appropriation of the Rectory itself to the Knights Hospitallers of St. John of Jerusalem, whose chief establishment for North Wales was at Halston. The foundation of the "Chapel of Knockin" dates between 1182 and 1195, and was due to Ralph L'Estrange, the Lord of the Castle. The appropriation to the Knights of St. John was made some time before 1248. "The grantor was either Griffin Goch, son of Gervase Goch, Latinarius, or Interpreter, to Hen. II., or his son, Madoc de Sutton; for the father presented the last rector and the son survived the time when the Hospitallers were in possession."[1] In 1253 the Norwich Taxation gives the value of "Ecc'a de Kinardinlhe que est hospitalar" as iii marcs on which was a Decima, tenth or tithe of iiijs. Forty years later, the Lincoln, or Pope Nicholas' Taxation notes its freedom from the charge, Ecclia de (Kynardynllef R. O.) est ap'pat' Hospitelar' & ideo non taxat'. The Vicarage is not mentioned owing probably to its being vacant and a controversy existing about it; for the following year, the advowson was claimed by James or Nicholas de Audley, who brought an action against the Prior of the Hospitallers, and pleaded that ever since the death of Madoc ap David, clerk, the church had been vacant, and that the presentation now belonged to him as lord of the manor,—but that the Prior hindered him from presenting, thereby involving him in a loss of £20. The result was that the advowson remained with the Hospitallers, who reckoned its value in 1338 as worth £8 per annum. From Llyfr Coch Asaph (the Red Book of St. Asaph) we learn that in 1307, the Vicarage was in the presentation of the bishop of the diocese, "Recognitio magistri Ednevet, Prioris Johannis de Jerusalem in 'nort wall' quod presentatio ad vicariam de Kinnardinlle pertinet ad Ep'um Ass et semper pertinuit." How or when it passed out of his hands it is not stated. But in the Feodary of 1397-98, the advowson of the demesne tithes is given among the possessions of Richard, the late attainted and executed Earl of Arundel; and these may have been given to the vicarage in consideration of the transfer of the patronage to it. In the Valor of 1534-5, the Vicarage is returned as worth £7 6s. 8d, upon which the Tenth was charged 14s. 8d.; the rectory as appropriate to the Commaundry of Hawston and there returned as worth £20 per ann. After the dissolution of the Order, the rectorial tithes had passed by grant, or purchase, to the hands of a Mr. Smith, of Gloucestershire, in 1710, and of Mr. Hyde, of West Hatch, in Wiltshire, in 1736. The Commuted value of the Vicarial Tithes is £170, and of the Rectorial £771 13s. 0d., divided among several impropriators, principally the late Mrs. Tayleur, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Pugh, Mr. R. J. Croxon, and Mr. Downes. The patronage, which was in the hands of the Lord Chancellor, has lately passed into those of the Earl of Bradford.

The Church which is dedicated to St. Mary, with its Wake on the 8th of September, the Nativity of the B.V.M., consists of a nave without aisles, and a semi-circular apse, which were rebuilt in 1790, with a Perpendicular tower at the West end, which is the only remain of the older church of two aisles with their respective chancels. A small inlaid brass on the floor of the chancel marks the burial place, and a tablet on the N. wall, commemorates John Bridgeman, Bishop of Chester 'qui iniquitate temporum quibus factio et usurpatio valebant, ab episcopali sede depulsus, ad ædes filii sui apud Moreton se contulit.' The old Font, which was "rescued from destruction by a gentleman who was passing the church at the time when some workmen were breaking it to pieces to mend the churchyard wall,"[1] was curious in form and notable for its inscription. The base has Pre-Norman ornamentation, but the upper portion appears to have been pared down and a Greek inscription which reads backwards and forwards alike substituted Νιψον ανομημματα μη μοναν οψιν. Wash (away) the transgression and not the face (or appearance) only. The same inscription occurs on the fonts in Sandbach Church, Cheshire, at Harlow in Essex, and is recorded to have existed on the font in St. Martin's, Ludgate. It is now in the grounds of Mrs. Dovaston of West Felton. The font in use, an octagonal with the panels bearing the emblems of the Holy Trinity, was presented by E. W. O. B(ridgeman), Vicar. The Communion Plate consists of a modern Flagon procured by E.W.O.B. in exchange for one inscribed "Glory be to God on high. The gift of Mr. Moses Griffiths in the year 1733, Born in this Parish, Kinnerley"; Two Communion Cups, the one Elizabethan c. 1576, the other "The Gift of Richard Geno,[1] Citizen of London unto the Parish of Kynerley 1607;" A Silver paten with the "Agnus" in the centre, and a Plated one for the Credence presented by Miss Downes in 1887.

A Chapel of Ease, dedicated to St. John of Jerusalem was erected in 1878 by the Misses Croxon as a memorial to their brother Richard Jones Croxon who died in 1875.

The Registers are given in the "Parish Register Abstract" of 1837, as

No. 1, ii. Bap. Bur. 1677—1760.
Mar. 1677—1753.
iii.—v. Bap. Bur. 1761—1812.
vi.—vii. Mar. 1754—1812.

But their interest claims as will be seen a more detailed description.

Vol. I. covering 1677—1715, is in parchment, 14 in. × 6½ in., the pages not numbered. On the outside of the front cover is written the name of 'Billinsgley Vicar' (1678—1685), on the inside the memoranda printed on p. 1; on the inside of the back cover we read "The Rev. David Thornes his age in the year 1754, 45," and "Parson Parry is 46 next Oct. 24," the latter of which mems is verified by the Register, and on the outside is stamped a monogram B.L. On p. 50 occurs the marriage of Vicar Clapham, Nov. 1, 1697, and a mem. at the end of the Vol. (p. 92), records his succession to Mr. Edwd. Hanmer, Vicar of Kinnerley, who, however, appears to have been the Curate in Charge.

Vol. II. Parchment 1715—1760; on inside of cover, "40 leaves in this book, 'David Bowen,' 'Jno. Bennett and Winifred Jones, both of this parish, were married;' 'Thomas Jones, Esq., and John Thornes, Clerke.'" On inside of back cover, "John Thornes, minister of Kynnerley, Curate, Anno Domini 1748;" erased, and other notes as in brackets on p. 179. Several of the pages are blank save written across them, "this side is unfit for use."

On p. 114 (1726 and 1727), the mother's name, as well as the father's, of the baptised child is recorded; but this use dropped out after a few months, and was not revived until 1760. On the 6th April, 1749, the Rural Dean ordered that the Register should be signed and attested, both by the Curate and the Churchwardens (p. 157); but only three instances occur of the Churchwardens signature, and those the same year, 1747, is given at the end of the Volume (p. 177). Marriages continued to be entered in this Volume to its end, contrary to the order for a separate Volume from 1754. A Terrier for the year 1749 is given at the end of the Volume.

Vol. III. Parchment 1761—1783 contains two very interesting memoranda relating to the Church fabric, e.g.:—

1773, Jan. 1. "The taking down of the old church was begun on the first day of this month."

1 This name occurs frequently in the Registers, chiefly in Edgerley. It appears to represent the old Welsh "Ceneu."

1774, July 17. "The New Church was opened for divine service on the sevente'nth day of this month. During the intermediate time from the taking down of the old church to the opening of the new one, several children of this parish were baptised in the adjoining Churches; and consequently those Baptisms are entered in the several Registers thereunto respectively belonging."

Vol. IV. Baptisms, 1783—1814, on paper, is very full, each page being ruled in six columns, giving respectively the name of the child, the parents, their abode and profession, the dates of Birth and of Baptism, with the very useful addition of the Mothers' Maiden name, in brackets.

Vol. V. Burials, 1783—1812, is also divided into columns, showing respectively the names of the persons buried, the parents, the abode, the profession and the date of the burial.

Vol. VI. Marriages, 1754—1794, on paper. Although the marriages continued to be entered with the baptisms and burials in the 2nd Vol. to its close in 1760; they are entered separately here from 1754. Two features mark this Volume unfavourably; the large number of crosses to the signatures as illustrating the educational poverty of the period, and gross laxity in the filling in of the Register. This was during the later years of David Prichard's Vicariate, and is in contrast to the regularity with which the baptisms and burials were entered.

Vol. VII. Marriages, 1794—1812, on paper. The name of the parish does not appear on the cover of this Volume, and it is omitted from the title page.

A short notice of the townships and their chief houses will help to elucidate the story of the Registers; and this is the more necessary, inasmuch as all the earlier entries are made according to the township, and not the particular residence. They are nine in number, viz., Kinnerley, Argoed, Dovaston, Kynaston, Osbaston, Maesbrook Ucha, Maesbrook Isa and Tirycoed. Of these, Kinnerley is very small in area, including a small portion of ground adjoining the churchyard on the N.E., and marked on the old Ordnance Map as "Ex(tra P(arochial);" this was, probably, Hospital Land. Argoed contains four chief houses—The Argoed, The Hall, Farm Hall and the Poplars. The Argoed has been for many generations the property of the family of "Thornes," and until recently the residence of the head, and it is still their property, though much dilapidated.[1] The "Argoed Hall" has been, at least since 1762, the property of the Downeses. "Hall Farm" is a very old, half-timbered house with fine oak beams and rafters; the beams and doors are unplaned and the partitions are of lath and plaster; the front door is studded with nails, and the kitchen floor paved. Sometime about 1700 it was cased in brick with sandstone dressings. In the passage are two coats of arms within a wreathe framed; both are quarterly, the one, 1 sa. and ar. a lion rampant counterchanged (Maurice or Kyffin). 2.—Ar a chevron gu. between three caltrops sa. pointing to centre (Maurice of Henfache), 3 gu. three chevrons ar., 4 erm, a lion rampt., sa. the other 1 ar. lion rampt. gu. (Kynaston), 2 sa 2 boars or (Sir Roger Powys). 3 gu. charged with three chevrons ar; 4 ar. a cross fleury between four choughs sa (Edwin of Tegengle). It appears to indicate the Thomas Kynaston of London, Merchant 1634 (son of Edward Kynaston of Morton) who married Susan da. of David Maurice of Glancynlleth. It is probable that here dwelt "Edward Powell of Argoed gent.," buried in 1764, Susanna, widow of William Powell, buried in 1766, and Thomas Powell of Argoed, gent., buried in 1780. It is now owned and occupied by Mr. Hanmer.

1 Of this family were "John Thornes, son of Thomas Thornes of Argoed" baptised May 5, 1724. Curate of Kinnerley 1747-1757. Rector of Aberhafesp 1757-1787; and "William Thornes, son of Mr. Thomas Thornes, de Argoed," babt. Aug. 10, 1752, curate of Alberbury, 1775-1778, Vicar of Alberbury 1779-1829.

The Argoed, now known as the "Poplars," belonged in the 17th century to a family named Davies, e.g. 1679 John, son of Humphrey Davies, of ye Argoid, buried; 1709, Mr. Thomas Davies, of Argoyd, attorney-at-law, buried; and 1731, Mr. Edward Davies, of Argoid, from London, buried June 16th; on an outbuilding there still survive the letters $\frac{D}{E.S}$ $\frac{1720,}{}$ It was sold by one of the Davies's to a Mr. Morris, and by him to a Mr. Howarth, of Manchester, from whom it was purchased by its present owner Mr. Gough.

In Edgerley Township were "Edgerley Hall," a half-timbered mansion, of which only a portion of a shed now remains; the "Rookery," an old and decayed farm house; and "Caehowell," a place at one time of great importance. Its name bespeaks its antiquity as an "enclosure" from the Common, and it figures as early as 1313 as the property of Griffith Kynaston of Stocks and Caehowell, probably by virtue of his marriage with Gwen, the heiress. Later another heiress, Anne Kynaston, conveyed it by marriage to John Lloyd. Again, the daughter and heiress of Richard Lloyd carried it over to Edward Clive, of the family of Styche, and their son George sold it to Sir Thomas Harris, who, in his turn, after buying Boreatton and the Manor of Baschurch, sold this place to Thomas Bradocke, a citizen of London, whose grandson, Andrew Bradocke, married Dorothy, a sister of Richard Gough, the historian of Myddle[1]; from the Bradocks it passed by sale to Mr. Simon Hanmer, of Duffrid, about the end of the 17th century. Its last owner, Mr. Harrington, who also owned Duckland and Criccieth, sold it to his wife's sister-in-law, Mrs. Thomas, of Gnosall, its present possessor. In its early days, its position commanding the ford and communication with Alberbury, Wattlesborough and Caus Castle must have been perilous but important; and its later greatness is attested by the portion that remains of the 16th century timbered mansion, with its massive internal, unplaned beams, and its external carvings and mouldings. One who remembered it before the alterations compared it with the fine remains of 1 Gough mentions a curious story about this house: "It is observed that if the chiefe person of the family that inhabits in this farme does fall sick, if his sicknesse bee to death, there comes a paire of pidgeons to the house about a fortnight or a weeke before the person's death, and continue there untill the person's death, and then goe away. This I have knowne them to doe three several times."—History of Myddle, p. 47.

Penrhos Hall, in Llandrinio. A portion of a richly floriated sepulchral slab now lying near the front door, was doubtless brought by river from the White Abbey, and represents some of the spoil of that Grandmontane foundation when its revenues were transferred to All Soul's College, Oxford, and its fabric made the quarry of the neighbourhood.

In Osbaston Township (Welsh Tre-Ospan, Trospan) were three chief-houses, the lowest of which, now tenanted by Mr. Wilde, and owned by Mr. Williams-Vaughan, was the property and residence of the Lloyd family, who figure largely in the Registers; it is a half timbered house cased externally and plastered; two rooms have their beams and rafters unplaned. The middle house, also half timbered, was the property of the Parrys, one of whom "Parson Parry" was first curate of this parish, and afterwards Vicar of Guilsfield and Canon of St. Asaph Cathedral, died 1769. The upper house was and still is the property and residence of the Rogers family. In 1699, Thomas, son of Mr. Samuel Rogers, of Osbaston, was born in Mount Serrat, Sept. 13, as his father saith (p. 54) and 1733, Thomas, son of Mr. Milward Rogers, of Osbaston, was baptised.

Maesbrook Ucha (Upper Maesbrook) had several places:—"Pentre Ucha." the seat of the Paynes from 1761; Three brothers John, Edward, and Richard Payne (V. of Kerry) left to the Poor a rent-charge on Llwynygo. Two places called Llwynygo, one belonging in the 18th century to Rogers, e.g., "1710. Thomas Rogers of Llunagoe, and William his sonne, both buried in one grave;" and 1775 William Rogers, gent., of Maesbrook Ucha, buried. The other belonged in 1680 to Thomas Davies. In 1720, it is described in the marriage settlement of Edward Davies, son and heir to Thomas Davies, with Sarah Woolfe, daughter of Roger Woolfe, as the messuage wherein Ann Rogers, widow, then did dwell, and in the possession of Samuel Davies, 1728, Edward Davies, dying without issue and without a will, it passed to his sister Susannah, wife of William Powell. She died in 1766, and in 1781, he sold it to Mr. Samuel Ward, the gt. gt. grandfather of the present owner, Mr. Ward Green. The Wood, formerly called Ty brith (the black and white house), a half-timbered house, now plastered, was bought in 1701, by Thomas Lacon, of Llwynygo, who, in 1713, granted it with a seat in Kinnerley Church to his son Thomas, (T.L. may still be seen on the gable of the malt-house), on whose bankruptcy it was sold in 1776 to Mr. Samuel Ward, in whose descendant it still is. Dyffryd (Dwy-ffrwd i.e. between the "two streams," the Vyrnwy and the Morda), was at the end of the 17th century, and in the first half of the 18th, the residence of the Hanmers. Edward Hanmer, son of Mr. James Hanmer, yeoman of Maesbrook, born in 1650, was educated at Oswestry School, and admitted at S. John's Coll., Cambridge, in 1668. Randle Hanmer, bapt. in 1677, was buried in 1709. Mr. Simon Hanmer bought Caehowel from the Bradocks. Mrs. Anne Hanmer, bur. 1607, charged Dyffryd with £2 p. a. for the poor of the Parish.

In Maesbrook Isa (Lower Maesbrook) were Pentre Heylin, the residence of the Paynes, from 1680 to 1750; Pentre Perva, where a family of the name of Francis lived in 1774, and the "Moat," now a small holding, but once a place of some note, three of the four sides of the foss still being patent, while the high road has supplanted the forth. In 1682, Richard, son of Richard Payne of Moat, and in 1685, John Payne of ye Mote were interred; and in 1773, John, son of Mr. Joseph Dodd of the Moat, and Sarah was baptised. Both the Moat and Pentre Heylin now belong to Mr. Ferrers.

"Tirycoed," has no old mansion remaining, but a Legacy of £40 left by Roger Gethin, was laid out on land in this township. The Gethins lived somewhere in Maesbrook, as in a list of Elegies on Gentry in Montgomeryshire, in the Peniarth Library (Mont. Collections vii. 2), by John Kain, we find an Elegy upon Edward Gethin of Maesbrook, 1633.

Ode to William Gethin of Maesbrook, 1635.
Ode to Edward Gethin of Maesbrook, 1637.
Elegy upon Willlam Gethin of Maesbrook, 1637.
Elegy upon Roger Gethin, 1641.

This last was probably the benefactor of the poor.

In "Kynaston" (better known by its earlier name of Treginford) are two or three old mansions; the chief of which was occupied in the first half of the 18th century by a branch of the Thornes family; Nicholas Thornes of K. left £10 to the poor: it was probably the one on the bank with a portion of the old timber-framed barn remaining; another behind it of unplaned timber work was for some generations owned and occupied by the Proberts, A third built of stone belongs to Rogers, but is now unoccupied.

Turning to the nomenclature of the Registers we find some curious names; e.g. of men, Carosalvadio, Uffa (Offa or Hwva) and Patriarke Errington; of women, Methusalah da. of . . . Phelis, Jaese (? Jessie), Havanapach (Karanhappuch). Family names exercised the ingenuity of the scribes in methods of spelling, e.g. Hewes, Huse, Hues, Genno, Gennah, Gennoah, Guenna, Genow, Cunna, Mears, Mearse, Mearce, Mers, Merse, Sidlow, Silito, Chidlow; Trustram, Trustron, Trustan; Illage, Illedge, and the Anglicised forms Byolin (ab Yolyn) Candlin (Cynddylan), Centhrig (Cynwrig), Peever (Ap Ivor), and Wellings (Llewelyn).

Place names include Dyffrwyd, Duffrwd, Dyffroyd, Dufrood, Dufred; Heathwen, Hithwern, Hiddwern, Hydwern, Hyddwen; Llwynygo is spelt Llunigo, Llunago, Llynygoe and Llunogo; Pwll occurs as Powlth, Pwllanney and Pwllhanney.

Osbaston as Tre-ospan, Trospan, Trosbourne. Trosporne, and Crosborne.

Knockin generally appears in the earlier entries as The Knockin or Knucking (Y Cnwccyn i.e. the Hillock). The "Quobbs," is an expressive and appropriate name for what must once have been the condition of many parts of the parish, the bogs or quagmires; and in the Hemp-butt we have the record of an expired industry, with its busy workers, the "flax-dresser," the "taw-dresers," and the "cordwainer." "Mattisfield," in Dyffryd, is probably "Matthews" field, and represents the David Matthews Charity of 40s.; which coincides with The Hanmer Charity of the same amount charged on this same field.

The List of Clergy includes :—

128...—Madoc ap David, presented by Griffyn de Sutton.

1293.—Eynon Gam, Clerke of Kinardeley.
